PLAYING BACCARAT

Minimums and maximums, and maximum payouts are posted at the table.

BACCARAT

An interactive and exciting game, Baccarat has the house dealing the cards and the players turning them over.

Depending on the game type being offered, players may not have the option to touch the cards. The drawing rules of both Mini and Midi Baccarat are the same as traditional Baccarat.

OBJECTIVE

The object of Baccarat is to bet on which hand will have the highest value. The highest hand in Baccarat is 9 and the lowest 0. Tens, Jacks, Queens and Kings are counted as zero, an Ace counts as one, and all the other cards count as their face value. When totaling the cards on each hand, only the right-hand number of the total figure is used to determine the hand's value (as illustrated in the example).

Example:

$$7 + 8 = 15$$

THE HAND VALUE IS

$$K + 5 + 6 = 11$$

THE HAND VALUE IS

Bets are placed and then a total of four cards are dealt. The first and third cards are the Player's hand and the second and fourth are the Banker's hand. Once the initial cards are dealt and exposed, the Dealer announces the totals for each hand and additional cards are then drawn in accordance with the Third Card Rules. (A maximum of one additional card may be dealt to either hand).

You have three betting options in Baccarat. You can bet that the Player's hand will win, that the Banker's hand will win, or that both hands will tie. If you win with a bet on either the Banker's or the Player's hand; your bet will be paid even money, with the exception of Banker winning with a point total of 6 (see No Commission Baccarat). If both hands tie, neither hand wins or loses, but if you have a wager on the tie, you win 8 to 1!

NO COMMISSION BACCARAT

When the Banker wins with a point total of six (6), all winning banker wagers are paid half of the original wager (1 to 2).

No Commission Baccarat offers an optional side wager - SUPER 6. Super 6 pays 12 to 1 when the Banker wins with a point total of 6.

COMMISSION BACCARAT

All winning Banker wagers are paid even money; however a 5% commission is collected on ALL winning Banker hands.

ADDITIONAL WAGERS

Side wagers offered on Baccarat will be identified on the table.
